Lynette Jung Lee joined the Oakland Housing Authority (OHA) Board of Commissioners (BOC) in March 2014. As a resident of Oakland with over four decades of community service, Ms. Lee has demonstrated a remarkable record of improving the communities in which she lives and works.

Having held several positions culminating with the position of Executive Director at the East Bay Asian Local Development Corporation (EBALDC) for 27 years, Lee has led teams that developed over 1,400 affordable housing apartment units, 200 homes and condos for sale, and 300,000 sq. ft. of commercial and office space. In addition to the expansion of housing stock, Lee was responsible for creating nearly 90 internal positions and hiring hundreds of workers from the construction trades for various jobs since originally joining EBALDC's two-person operation in 1976.

More recently, Ms. Lee has provided consulting services for Diversity in Health Training Institute, a non-profit committed to assisting immigrants pursuing or refreshing their careers in health fields. For years she has been a tireless advocate for the Asian community and the community development field through teaching program development, and service on various local and national boards.

With her appointment by Mayor Jean Quan, OHA is gaining the expertise of a seasoned real estate developer with strong knowledge of neighborhood and economic development. Her commitment to increasing the availability of housing and improving economic vitality in Oakland aligns well with the goals of OHA.
